

Suraj Singh Domeli

With heavy hearts, we announce the passing of Suraj Singh Domeli, who left us far too soon at the age of 30. Born and raised in Victoria, BC, Suraj was known for his unwavering work ethic, quiet strength, and deep love for those around him.

A passionate athlete, Suraj had a lifelong love for rugby and made it a tradition to organize annual trips to Vancouver for the Rugby Sevens tournament. He carried that same dedication into his professional life, working tirelessly in various roles before pursuing his true calling in law enforcement. After graduating from the University of Victoria and the BC Justice Institute, he became a police officer, a role in which he truly excelled. Respected by colleagues and leadership alike, Suraj embodied the integrity, courage, and dedication of his profession.

Beyond his career, Suraj found happiness in life's simple moments—going for drives, spending time with family and friends, and traveling to England to visit loved ones. He had a deep fascination with planes and could often be found watching them take off at the airport. The holiday season was especially meaningful to him, as he cherished the time when everyone came together.

Among the most important relationships in his life was the one he shared with his grandmother. More than a grandson, he was her caregiver, always checking in on her, ensuring her laundry was done, medication was taken and meals were ready on time. Playfully, he took on the role of her “manager”, always keeping things in order and directing others in the house to make sure she was well cared for. They shared a love for sweets—he would buy her treats and even stock up her nightstand so she'd never run out.

Suraj was deeply devoted to his fiancée, with whom he was excited to build a future. He held great pride in the home they purchased and renovated together and was eagerly looking forward to their wedding later this year. He showed his love through acts of service, whether it involved cleaning, yard work, or simply keeping his living space organized and meticulous. He took pride in the small things that made life better for those around him. To those who knew him well, he was warm, kind, and deeply loyal.

Suraj will be profoundly missed by his family, friends, colleagues, and all those fortunate enough to have known him.

A celebration of Suraj's life will be held in the Sequoia Centre at McCall Gardens, 4665 Falaise Drive, Victoria, on Friday, March 14, 2025, at 10:00 am. Zoom link below:
